Without traveling far from home, the Study Club also provides a casual time for dental professionals to increase their confidence through skill-building activities.

"I'm at the point in my career and in life where giving is more meaningful than receiving. To be able to share knowledge knowing the impact it could have on the multitude of patients is priceless to me," said Dr. Gallardo.

The Miami Study Club is part of Dental ED, an international organization bringing together a wide range of dental professionals to further their educational interests. Each session begins with an in-depth talk regarding current dental technologies, trends, and cutting-edge research. Started in 2004, Dental ED has become a leader in dentistry training, offering a variety of study clubs and courses for professionals across the globe. Each session connects with the world's most respected educators using live, interactive-web conferencing technology.
